SBDP COMMUNITY INVESTMENTS

Smart Beginnings invests in our local community through Innovation Awards that support pre-literacy and reading proficiency by third grade. SBDP is especially interested in efforts that empower high-risk populations, such as children not participating in preschool, single parent households, teen parents, families living at or below the poverty level, and children with untreated developmental delays. While our primary focus is literacy, the availability of parent education and support are also emphasized as they promote the social and emotional wellbeing of the child and family.

Our current Innovation Awards and Partners include:

Danville Public Schools: Funding for a Professional Development Coordinator to work with teachers in small groups and provide professional development opportunities.

Pittsylvania County Schools: Funding for an evidenced-based program that develops and strengthens the classroom management skills of teachers. Approximately 100 Pre-school through 2nd grade teachers are benefiting.

Pittsylvania County Schools: Funding for My Sidewalk, a research-based intensive reading intervention program that accelerates the reading development of struggling students. The program reaches over 150 students.

Danville Pittsylvania Community Services: Funding for two playgroups a week held in the Danville Redevelopment and Housing Authority community. The playgroup provides an opportunity for caregivers to build connections, friendships, and a circle of mutual support while being centered on an evidence-based curriculum.

Pittsylvania County Schools: Funding for an evidence-based parent education program that helps parents create positive relationships with their child.

TRAINING TIPS

To the Tune of Learning

- Music grows the human brain, particularly in the earliest years of life.
- Implementing music into all types of subject matter makes learning fun.
- Anyone, trained or untrained, can do music with young children.

Leading with a Purpose

- Teaching teachers how to be leaders and encouraging each other is important.
- Set the environment with positive tools that reflect a spirit of family.
- It is always better to be Loving than to be Right!

Purposeful Planning

- If children are in a safe space that encourages movement, they will explore the environment independently.
- Infants and toddlers learn best with an intentional teacher.

Intentional Teaching

- When planning activities, ask yourself, "is this activity relevant, providing the opportunity for learning, and extending knowledge?"
- Active learning activities promote learning and diminish negative behaviors.
- Planning lessons based on children's interests motivates them to learn.

The Power of Free Choice

- Comment on what you notice, making positive comments on what you see the child doing.
- Ask the child how "you" can be a part of his or her play.
- Be aware of punitive or negative language during play.
- Create an environment that welcomes play and comfort. Is your space inviting? Do you have well defined spaces?

WE BELIEVE IN...

SUCCESS

FOR ALL STUDENTS, TEACHERS, AND FAMILIES

On August 8, Smart Beginnings DP launched its Success for All Students, Teachers and Families campaign with an inspirational welcome-back-to-school event for all elementary teachers in Danville and Pittsylvania County. The event was only possible with the help of our partners: Averett University, DCC, Danville Public Schools, and Pittsylvania County Schools.

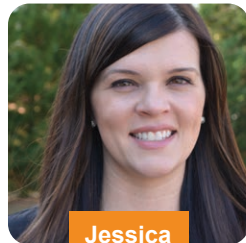

A video featuring local success stories was a highlight of the event and a meaningful reminder that classrooms are places of possibility and transformation. The video features Chris Wilson, Brandie Kendrick, Dr. Corliss Jones, Wesson Claiborne-Felder, Phillip Hayes, Chris Burton, Danielle Jeffers, Carllneshia Johnson, Justin Ferrell, and Dr. Tiffany Franks.

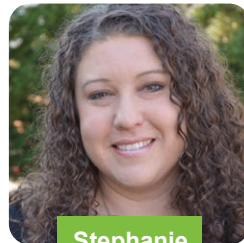

You can watch the video on our homepage, www.smartbeginningsdp.org.
